

COUNT TOLSTOY
DIES IN CABIN

Noted Russian Author Passes
Away at Astapova.

HAD BEEN IN POOR HEALTH

Writer Left Home Some Time Ago on Account of Trouble That Has Not Been Explained—Excommunication From the Greek Catholic Church Preyed Heavily on the Mind of the Aged Man.

Astapova, Nov. 21.—Count Leo Tolstoy died here. He was unconscious for some time before the end came and failed to recognize his wife when she entered his bed chamber.

It was Oct. 12, when for reasons that have not yet been fully made clear, Tolstoy fled from his home at Yasnaya Poliana, practically deserting his wife and family. To the former he left a note in which he declared he could no longer live surrounded by luxury and had fled in order that he might spend his last days in solitude. The disappearance of the author was kept a family secret for nearly a month and then the countess, almost distressed by her failure to get any news of her husband's whereabouts, made the fact known.

He had lived for years a most simple life, and this caused general apprehension that his mind might be failing. His friends and members of his family at once organized themselves into searching parties with the result that on Nov. 12 he was found on the estate of the Abrikosoffs, a wealthy manufacturer, within eighty miles of the home from which he had fled.

Overestimated His Power.

As a matter of fact, in attempting his flight, Tolstoy, who was eighty-two years old, overestimated his powers of endurance and quickly succumbed to the hardships of the winter journey. An inflammation of the lungs set in and when Dr. Makowetzky, who had accompanied the count on his flight, attempted to get him back home, it was found that he could not even stand the railroad journey, comparatively short as it was. He had to be taken from the train at the little station of Astapova, where a lodging was found for him in the hut of a railroad trackman. There he was forced to remain, the inflammation of the lungs gradually becoming worse and sapping his vitality until he could be kept alive only by the constant administration of stimulants to keep up his heart action.

The fact of his excommunication from the Greek Catholic church weighed heavily on Count Tolstoy's mind. In his delirious moments he made constant reference to the fact and when in possession of his faculties would also refer to it bitterly. As a consequence every possible effort was made by his friends and even by Emperor Nicholas himself to bring about a rescinding of the decree of excommunication, but without result.

The holy synod remained obdurate on the point, declaring that Tolstoy himself had given no indication that he desired a reconciliation, and refusing to take the initiative in the matter.

Tolstoy also refused a reconciliation with his family, both his wife and children being denied entrance to his sick chamber until he lapsed into unconsciousness.

Born at Yasnaya Poliana.

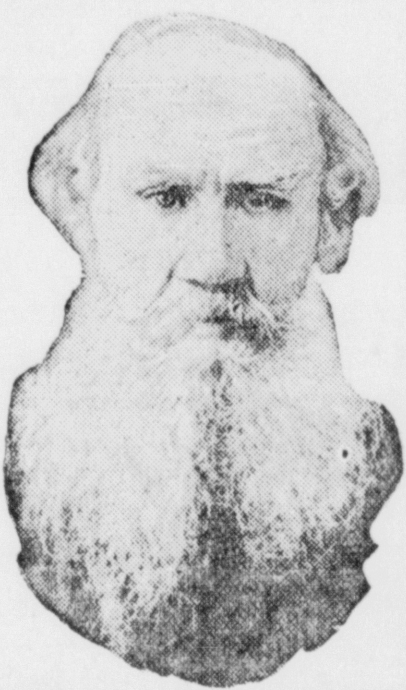

Count Lyof Nikolaivitch Tolstoy, usually called Count Leo Tolstoy, novelist and social reformer, was born Aug. 28, 1828, at Yasnaya Poliana, in the province of Tula, Russia. When twenty-three years old he entered the army and served in the Caucasus and in the defense of Sebastopol against the British and French allied forces. He first made a reputation in literature by a series of vivid sketches written from Sebastopol. When he left the army, soon after the Crimean war, he devoted himself entirely to literature.

His "War and Peace," a tale of invasion of Russia by Napoleon in 1812. Is regarded in Russia as being his masterpiece, though his "Anna Karenina," which appeared in 1876, and "The Cossacks," found greater favor abroad, where his "Kreutzer Sonata," translations of which were published in 1890, also attracted wide attention. Tolstoy wrote much on education and published several short stories and reminiscences of childhood and youth, but of recent years he had devoted himself to religious teaching. He made "Return Not Evil" the keynote of the Christian faith and insisted that the literal interpretation of the sermon on the mount was the only rule of the Christian life. The religious views of Tolstoy were set forth in his "Christ's Christianity" and "My Religion."

In 1903 Tolstoy was excommunicated by the holy synod and in October, 1902, he deposited his memoirs and diaries with the curators of the Rumyantsev museum, on the condition that they should not be published until ten years after his death, and in November of the same year he legally made over his whole fortune, including his real and personal estate, to his wife and children.

PRICES ARE ON THE DECLINE

Meat and Other Provisions Are Cheaper.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—The packers wholesale prices for food products now as compared with the maximum high prices of the decade which was in force last January, show a material reduction.

The prices remained at the top until well along in the spring, when the influx of lambs and sheep caused the first break. Cattle, which sold as high as $11 a hundred, began to drop and pork followed.

Wheat, which sold a year ago at $1.12 a bushel, is now 90 cents. Corn, which sold at 70 cents, is now 45 cents. The same percentage of declines applies to poultry. Chickens and turkeys are 15 cents cheaper than a year ago. Bacon is standing like a stone wall. It is selling retail at 35 cents a pound, right at the top. This is explained by the packers that very few bacon hogs are coming into the market. The bacon hog must be lean, and the run of hogs is away above the average weight. It is only a matter of time until bacon must come down. It has advanced from the normal price of 14 cents to the present high point.

Flour is $1 a barrel under the price in January, and is scheduled for a big decline. Although the country has raised but a normal wheat crop, there is no export demand. Other wheat-raising countries raised bumper crops and are underselling the United States in all consuming countries.

FOUR DROWNED AT
SAULT STE. MARIE

Waves Fill Boat and It Sinks
With Occupants.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Nov. 21.—Four persons were drowned near here when a rowboat sank in the St. Marys river. They were Fred Parker, Cecil Brown and Reginald Levell, all prominent young men of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and John Sherward, night ferryman, who used the rowboat after the steam ferry had ceased operations for the day. Three passengers aboard the boat were rescued when the little craft sank.

With six passengers the ferryman left the American shore for the Canadian Soo. The boat was overloaded, and a stiff east wind washed considerable water into it. Bailing was started, but two more combers struck the frail craft and it went down. Parker, Brown and Levell disappeared immediately.

Sherwood, who was a cripple, and the other three passengers started to swim for shore, but the ferryman was soon lost sight of. Cries from the other swimmers attracted the attention of the crew aboard the supply boat Superior and the latter's distress signals brought a tag, which assisted in the rescue.

The names of the rescued are Clifford Dils, Samuel Byron and Norman Treganza.

DICK CROKER IS IN NEW YORK

Former Tammany Boss Arrives From Ireland.

New York, Nov. 21.—Richard Croker, the old Tammany leader, landed here from Ireland for his annual visit to Palm Beach. He will spend but a few days in New York and take no part in politics, but he was less taken than usual and vouchsafed a few comments on the election results.

"Roosevelt cost the Republican party votes," he said, "but I don't think a Republican tariff is responsible for the high cost of living. The people have more today of everything that makes for comfort. They have rapid transit, schools, telephones, gas and electricity, automobiles, what not? Well, who's going to pay for it? The people themselves, I say.

"Home rule for Ireland? The people are confident they'll get it and I think with reason. I'm not in politics myself, but I have seven race horses in training now and I expect to have a dozen next season. One of them is sired by Orby and promises well. I'll be back there to look after him in April. For the winter I'm going where it's warm."

ALL ALONG THE PANAMA CANAL

Colonel Goethals Reports Satisfactory Progress.

PLEASES SECRETARY OF WAR

Dickinson Gratified Over the News of Progress on the Big Ditch—Health Conditions on the Canal Zone Are Better Than Ever Before—Work of Excavation Progressing Favorably.

Washington, Nov. 21.—Summarized in a phrase, "satisfactory progress all along the Panama canal zone" is the gist of the annual report of the Isthmian canal commission, made to Secretary of War Dickinson by Colonel George Goethals, chairman of the commission and chief engineer in charge of the work on the canal, and made public by the former.

With the work of excavation and of construction progressing favorably at all points along the line, with health conditions better than ever before, with a centralization and consequent economy in certain parts of the work and with a maximum of laborers since the United States began to dig the canal, Colonel Goethals' report was decidedly pleasing to Secretary Dickinson.

The chief engineer reports, however, that it was not all smooth sailing during the past year, slides, breaks and floods hindering the work to a certain extent. He mentions four slides, covering respectively 47, 7.3, 4.6 and 1.7 acres and requiring during the year the removal of more than 1,000,000 cubic yards of material.

"It was expected," he says, "that slides would occur, and in the estimates provision was made for them, but it now appears from cracks that show in the upper surface adjacent to the faces of the cut that sufficient allowance had not been made, and the estimates were corrected to meet the new conditions."

Three Bad Breaks.

Three bad breaks, he reports, occurred during the year; one at the town of Culebra, covering an area of more than ten acres and requiring a removal of more than 1,500,000 cubic yards of dirt and stone. The second largest break covered an area of more than eleven acres and required a removal of more than 300,000 cubic yards, while the third break aggregated about 40,000 cubic yards.

"The floods seriously interfered with the progress of the work," says Colonel Goethals, referring in particular to that of the central division and the Culebra cut, and the one of Dec. 29 overflowed the dike separating the cut from the Chagres river, cutting a channel through it about 200 feet long and twenty-one feet deep."

The total amount of material removed from slides and breaks in the central division of the canal during the year was more than 2,500,000 cubic yards, or about 15 per cent of the amount removed during the year from the Culebra cut, the principal part of the central division.

More than 36,500,000 cubic yards of material were removed from all parts of the canal during the year, of which almost 15,000,000 were from the Culebra cut and almost 10,000,000 cubic yards remain to be removed from the Culebra cut before this section of the canal is completed.

Reports from various points along the line show that the cost of excavation varied from 24 cents per cubic yard at one place to as high as $2.51 at another. There is no such divergence of price in the cost per cubic yard of concrete work, the lowest average being $6 and the highest $8.60. More than 700,000 cubic yards of concrete were laid during the year.

Economy has been sought by the commission in various directions.

There was a steady increase from the beginning of the past fiscal year in the number of employees on the canal zone until on March 30 last they reached a maximum of 38,676, the largest force on record.

HENRY M. HOYT.

Counsellor of State
Department is Dead.

HENRY M. HOYT DIES
IN THE CAPITAL CITY

Counsellor of State Department
Passes Away.

Washington, Nov. 21.—Henry Martyn Hoyt, counsellor for the department of state, died at his home here from peritonitis.

Mr. Hoyt was taken ill in Canada while there in connection with the reciprocity negotiations between the United States and that country. Since his return to Washington last Monday he had been confined to his home, and physicians called into consultation with the family physician considered the case as extremely serious from the beginning. Almost from the time Mr. Hoyt took to his bed there were rumors that his condition was very grave.

The condition of the sick man was such that the attending physician, Dr. Robert M. Baker of this city, and the wife, son and daughter of Mr. Hoyt deemed it advisable to remain at the bedside throughout the night. Shortly after midnight those keeping vigil at the bedside noticed a change for the worse, when a perceptible weakening of his pulse beats was noticeable. From then on, except for a short period, during which he rallied somewhat, Mr. Hoyt sank rapidly until death overtook him.

Mr. Hoyt, it was said, had been suffering from an intestinal trouble for more than a year, resulting eventually in the disease which caused his death. He suffered during his last illness with perforating ulcer of the stomach, which resulted in peritonitis.

In the death chamber when life left the body, besides the physicians were Mrs. Henry M. Hoyt, Henry M. Hoyt, Jr., and Mrs. Philip Hickborn, respectively wife, son and daughter of the deceased.

The body of Mr. Hoyt will be taken to his home city of Wilkesbarre, Pa., for interment, which will be private. Following short funeral services at the residence here the body will be taken to the Pennsylvania city for burial, the date for which has not been decided.

NOW AGITATE WASHINGTON

Three Questions Trouble Politicians There.

Washington, Nov. 21.—Will President Taft call an extra session of the Sixty-second congress?

Will the Democrats consent to a change in the house rules, taking the committee appointing power from the speaker?

Will the Republicans undertake the revision of some of the most objectionable features of the Payne-Aldrich tariff at the short session?

Here are a trio of questions which form the staple of conversation among the incoming politicians of both parties. You can get any kind of an answer to either one of them you desire. It all depends on who you are talking to.

The Republicans here are confident the Democrats are going to smash when they tackle the tariff and profess to be anxious to see an extra session called in order that the discussion in the ranks of the enemy will be developed sufficiently to decide the election in 1912. Strange as it may appear, those Democratic leaders who are here seem to be perfectly willing to be put to the test and evince no fear at all of an extra session. In fact, some of the most influential men in the party have no hesitation in saying they will welcome an extra session.

Fairmont, Minn., Nov. 21.—Eddie Anderman of this city is dead as the result of an accidental discharge of his shotgun while hunting. In pulling the weapon after him through a fence it was discharged and the load entered his leg close to the body. Blood poison set in and death followed in a few days.

Rev. Joseph R. Alten Delivers a Sermon Based on the Eleventh Chapter of St. John at

ST PAUL'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH

God Gives No Greater Sorrow Than One Can Bear—With Every Sorrow Comes a Blessing

Extracts from the sermon preached at St. Paul's Episcopal church by the Rector, Rev. Joseph R. Alten:—

"Now Jesus was not yet come into the town, but was in that place where Martha met Him. The Jews which were with her in the house, comforted her, when they saw Mary that she rose up hastily and went out, following her saying, 'She goeth unto the grave to weep there.'"

"We have here a picture of our Saviour, who left His heavenly home to come upon earth for the sake of humanity—to help mankind. The reason for His laying aside His Godhead temporarily, was the necessity for mankind, to allow His humanity to appeal to man. Does a poor man take council from a rich man in his personal and home affairs? Not as a rule. Nor does one in lowly position have full confidence in one of higher position. That which is a comfort to the man in high position or to one that is rich is rarely, if ever, a comfort to the man in low position or poor. The man in the lower station has not the confidence in the other because they live in different spheres and have not the same difficulties to face. So our Saviour, to help mankind and win his confidence, laid aside His Divinity and assumed humanity.

"Word was sent to Jesus that Lazarus was sick. Notwithstanding this message, our Lord 'abode two days still in the same place where He was,' and came not to him who was sick unto death. When it was now time for Jesus to go to Lazarus, He said to His disciples, 'Let us go into Judea again.' But they tried to dissuade Him by referring to the fact that the Jews sought to stone Him. After that He said, 'Our friend Lazarus sleepeth, but I go that I may awake him.' They understood not that He referred to the death of Lazarus, so they said 'if he sleeps it is well,' since it was always considered good for a patient to sleep.

"As soon as Martha heard that Jesus was coming, before He came within the town, she went to Him and said, 'Lord, if Thou hadst been here my brother would not have died,' and in the house where she had been she left Mary and the Jews who had assembled there to weep and mourn with them because of the death of Lazarus. The Jewish custom was to gather at the house of affliction and act as mourners as is done so often today, chiefly to make an impression, while the heart very soon overcomes its sorrow and all is forgotten. The custom was chiefly among the heathen to tear the flesh and to beat themselves, etc., in order that they might show their sorrow.

"Our Saviour tells Martha that her brother will rise again, and she responds, 'I know that he will rise again in the resurrection at the last day,' not understanding the Saviour's intention; but he says: 'I am the Resurrection and the Life. He that believeth in Me, though he were dead, yet shall he live, and he that believeth in Me shall never die.' Thus He calls her attention to the fact that He will restore Lazarus to life. Then Martha goes away and secretly tells Mary that her Lord is there and calls her, but she tells her secretly, that the others might not know that He is there, because the Jews were seeking Him to kill Him.

"Why did not Jesus prevent the death of Lazarus and thus relieve those whom He loved from this so great sorrow? It is a greater work to restore life when it has fled; even man can prevent death for a while but to restore life when it is gone is a task which only God can perform.

Did not our Saviour before this give sight to the one born blind? Did they not call Him a deceiver? Did He not bring comfort to the Centurion; did He not heal the sick; cause the lame to walk, restore hearing to the deaf and yet they call Him a deceiver. So in this case He waited till death actually set in and the body was already putrefied so that they said, 'He stinketh,' in order that they might see the greatest of all miracles, and thus all occasion for lack of faith be removed. And so that all, even the unwilling ones, might behold the work. The message was brought to Mary secretly and those assembled, thinking that she was going to her brother's grave to weep there, they followed her but (Continued on page four)

New Census May Give Them
More Representation.

MINNESOTA IS ONE OF THEM

North Star State Likely to Be Given Increased Representation in the Lower House of Congress—Wisconsin and the Two Dakotas Also Are Apt to Gain More Congressmen as a Result of the Census.

Washington, Nov. 21.—Minnesota, Wisconsin and certain other Western states will obtain increased representation in the lower house of congress following the reapportionment act that will be passed following the completion and work of the census bureau for 1910. At present Minnesota has nine members, Wisconsin eleven and North and South Dakota each has two. The chances are that Minnesota, Wisconsin and the Dakotas will be entitled to increased representation, dependent altogether upon the ratio of increase in population of the states named.

The present unit of representation is 193,167 persons. The house now embraces 391 members. There is a good deal of opposition to a material increase in the size of the membership. An effort will be made to fix upon a unit of representation that will not materially increase the personnel. However, some states will oppose this programme. To maintain the house at approximately its present membership would result in the loss of representation to Maine, Iowa, Nebraska, a number of Southern states, and possibly Kansas. The indications are that the census of this year will disclose a loss of population in the states enumerated, and a loss of population may mean loss of representation, dependent upon the unit of the congress district determined upon by the senate and the house.

The Constitution requires that a reapportionment shall follow each decennial enumeration of the people, and accordingly a redistribution of seats in the house membership takes place soon after the conclusion of each census.

Politics May Determine Choice.

Up to 1890 the reapportionment was uniformly postponed until the first session of the congress succeeding the enumeration, but after the eleventh census a change was made and the apportionment bills for the eleventh and twelfth censuses were brought in and passed in each case at the short session of the current congress immediately following the census. It will rest with the approaching session to determine whether it shall follow the old or the new precedent. Politics is likely to determine the choice.

Apportionment in itself can be used for party advantage through the manipulation of population fractions in the various states. The size of the house once determined the representation of each state is arrived at by dividing the aggregate population of the country by the total membership of the house and then dividing the population of any given state by the quotient thus obtained. Almost inevitably there ensues upon each of such divisions a remainder large or small. Aside from arbitrarily fixing the representation on the number of voters rather than the actual population the remainder or fraction affords the base of manipulation of the apportionment of members. If used to the extreme it might be an important factor, as twenty-three representatives now hold their seats on fractions.

If the policy of allowing no reduction in the unit of representation should be accepted in the approaching apportionment it might upset the plans of some of the leaders, who are most anxious to avoid any appreciable increase in the size of the house. The census experts already understand that when the figures are made public they will show that some of the smaller Eastern states have failed to keep pace in growth with their large neighbors and with many Western states. If, therefore, they are to be protected against loss of representation it will be necessary to hold the ratio down to something like the present basis or to discriminate in favor of the smaller states.

GOV. EBERHART WILL BE HERE

Prominent Speakers from Different Parts of the State Will Participate in Convention

THE PROGRAM IS GIVEN OUT

All Eyes on Brainerd and the Coming Meeting is the Chief Topic of Discussion

The annual meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development association which is to be held here the 1st and 2d of December is the chief topic of discussion in business and political circles and it will be one of the most important of all the meetings that the association has held. The arrangements are practically completed and the program is being printed and distributed today. Gov. Eberhart has given his consent to address the convention and other speakers of note will be found on the program published below. The Minneapolis Journal in speaking of the political aspect in regard to reappointment and the Brainerd convention says:

The most interesting feature in the speakership contest is the attitude of northern Minnesota. The thirty-one counties in the Northern Minnesota Development association, which meets at Brainerd, Dec. 1, are deeply in earnest in their leading topic at the Brainerd meeting. The house members from that section are all pledged to work for reappointment ahead of everything. To that end they are preparing to take a hand in selecting a speaker, so as to get a man who will be in full sympathy with them. There are twenty-six republican house members from that territory, and it only takes forty-five votes to control the republican caucus. If the northern men throw their vote solidly they will be able to control. They have not made any move to tie up. They are not disposed to favor H. H. Dunn, of Albert Lea, who comes from territory that has been hostile to reappointment. They are not sure of J. A. A. Burnquist, the St. Paul man and the other leading candidate. They are afraid Burnquist cannot win because he has not the Ramsey county support. Burnquist has ten votes in Hennepin ready to go for him if they will make him speaker, but they are taking it cautiously and probably will do nothing before the delegation meeting. None of the other delegations have been called into caucus yet. Dunn is very busy, and Burnquist is also active. Burnquist is a county option man and with the solid support of that element would be sure to win, but the county optionists are not all for him. Some still want J. N. Johnson of Canby to make the run. There is also talk of J. T. Johnson of Perkasie Falls and G. H. Mattison of Roseau.

There is a good race on for chief clerk of the house, between A. H. Vernon, of Little Falls, who held the position last time; and Oscar Arneson of Herman, who was first assistant. It is probable that the loser in this fight will be put in as first assistant, which is also an elective place. The speakership may be determined within the next week or two, but the other house places will not be settled until just before the legislature meets, Jan. 3.

The program as outlined by Secretary W. R. Mackenzie is as follows:

Thursday, Dec. 1st, meeting called to order at 10 a. m., at the opera house.

Invocation—Rev. J. R. Alten.

Address of Welcome—C. A. Albright, President Crow Wing County Development Association.

"Reapportionment" Adolph O. Eberhart, Governor of Minnesota.

"Conservation, the Question of the Hour"—Frank M. Eddy, Sauk Centre.

Introduction of bills.

Appointment of Committees.

Afternoon session—2 o'clock.

"Good Roads and the One Mill Tax"—Robert C. Dunn, editor of the Princeton Union.

"Commission Plan for the Handling and the Settlement of State Lands"—Hugh J. Hughes, editor Farm, Stock & Home, Minneapolis.

Evening session—7:30 o'clock.

"Consolidated Rural Schools"—W. M. Hayes, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., and A. M. Dunton, principal McIntosh Agricultural High School.

Friday, Dec. 2d—10 a. m.

"Forest Fire Protection"—G. E. Marshall, Chief Forestry Supervisor, U. S. Government, Cass Lake Reservation.

ST. PAUL CONFERENCE

Dec. 4 and 5 to Consider the Forest Fire Question Will be Attended by Prominent Men

Governor Eberhart has been resting after his strenuous campaign but has been at his office every day. There is some apprehension among certain officials who owe their positions to appointment by the governor as to whether they will hold on. Especially is this the case among several democrats. It is expected that the governor will take action on matters in a few days.

Meantime Gernor Eberhart is preparing for the conference to be held at St. Paul Hotel, December 5 and 6 on the forest fire question. It was first planned to have Governors Davidson, of Wisconsin, and Warner of Michigan, attend the conference. Governor Davidson, however, was not a candidate for re-election and he expressed the desire to have the man who was chosen as his successor attend instead. Accordingly Governor-elect McGovern will be here as the representative of Wisconsin, while Governors Eberhart and Warner will represent Minnesota and Michigan.

It is believed that much good will result from this conference as the program prepared by J. E. Rhodes, president of the Minnesota Forestry association provides for discussion of the subject from its various angles.

In addition to addresses by three governors there will be speeches by many men of note.

From the suggestions these speakers will make it is believed a well defined plan for the prevention of future life and property will result.

You would wait until the last moment! Now that Thanksgiving is a whisper away and the air is full of football games and cranberries and turkey gobblers, you've realized that you had better be spick and span for winter.

If we hadn't kept re-purchasing all through the fall, you wouldn't find much of a selection here, but as luck will have it, we've re-stocked during the last fortnight, and you'll find newer styles, and just as many of them as we could have shown you six weeks ago.

Of course you'll want an overcoat, THE best you can get has a Sincerity Label in it; NONE of them very high priced and all good enough to bear the maker's label, which means the maker's guarantee.

We will fit your age as well as your body. A little bit better, not a little bit more.

How one man fooled his wife

She had been using her "favorite" baking powder. Wouldn't think of trying anything else, because "mother always used it," or some similar excuse. Hubby said she was prejudiced. He figured if Calumet, the new baking powder, selling at a moderate price, could be so successful, there must be some good in it. So he took a hand, and bought a can of Calumet, emptied the can containing her "favorite" baking powder and filled it with Calumet.

That evening, unsuspecting the trick, Wife prepared and served some of her famous biscuit—piping hot, temptingly browned and puffed up to airy lightness, they were even more delicious than usual. Hubby, after considerable difficulty, succeeded in convincing her that the basis of the improvement was Calumet Baking powder. And so an everlasting friend for Calumet was made.

This truthful little incident simply proves that the housewife is oftentimes prejudiced against all baking powders except the one she has been using for years. She imagines that no other kind can possibly be as good. This is a mistaken impression. A trial of Calumet will prove that it is purer, more reliable; it has a greater leavening power than any other baking powder made. And it is moderate in price.

THE TRIUMPH OF INTENSE FAITH

not to see her weep, which was their intention, but to behold the wonderful works of God. Here then Christ Jesus our Lord proved Himself not mere man but "Very God of Very God." Here also He taught them by deed that they who believed on Him should have eternal life. "It is not death to die."

Our Saviour teaches in addition to all this another lesson how a Christian should sorrow, not for public notice, not that the world might see and hear us sorrow, but alone and silently. How does He teach it? The very shortest passage in the Holy Writ tells us "Jesus wept." Yes, sorrow causes us to weep and when it comes let the tears flow, this will bring relief but withdraw thyself when thou doest it. Our Savior desires no sham, no public display but that what we do we shall do with all sincerity of purpose in all honesty and integrity.

Why did He not order the rock covering the grave to remove itself since if He had the power to bring back to life He certainly would have power to remove the rock without human intervention. In all the works of God for men man is used by Him to appeal to men. Moreover had He done otherwise He would have laid Himself open again to the charges of trickery and this was what He wished to prevent.

In closing, we have a picture of sadness and yet joy. Let us learn the lesson. God gives no greater sorrow than one can bear, and with every sorrow comes a blessing, since our Savior taught us to grieve in spirit let us so grieve if need be that comes to us, and in our grief let us turn to God in penitence asking Him to have mercy and strengthen us and help us strive to live with Him Who reigns above, knowing that He Who came to earth for us was indeed very God and He Who grieved for Lazarus will have mercy upon us and come also to our help as He did to Mary and Martha and will turn our sorrow to joy.
